

Dangerous Freedom

Fusion and Fragmentation in Toni Morrison's Novels

Philip Page

University Press of Mississippi
Jackson

C O N T E N T S

- Acknowledgments ix
- 1 The Puzzle of the One-and-the-Many 3
 - 2 Morrison's Novels as Texts, Not Works 26
 - 3 The Break Was a Bad One:
The Split World of The Bluest Eye 37
 - 4 Shocked into Separateness:
Unresolved Oppositions in Sula 60
 - 5 Putting It All Together:
Attempted Unification in Song of Solomon 84
 - 6 Everyone Was Out of Place:
Contention and Dissolution in Tar Baby 108
 - 7 Anything Dead Coming Back to Life Hurts:
Circularity in Beloved 133
 - 8 Make Me, Remake Me:
Traces, Cracks, and Wells in Jazz 159
 - 9 What's the World For If You Can't Make It Up the Way You Want It? 178
- Notes 189
- Works Cited 209
- Index 225