

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Editorial Preface	ix
Preface to the English Edition	xiii
INTRODUCTION	1
1. Problems and Methods of Analysis	1
2. Science and Philosophy; Newton and Leibniz	5
3. 'Absolute' and 'Relative' Space	6
4. Newton's Theory of Space and the Space Theory of Newtonianism	7
5. The Leibniz-Newton Discussion and the Leibniz-Clarke Correspondence	8
PART ONE / ELEMENT AND SYSTEM IN CLASSICAL MECHANICS
I. Newton's Justification of the Theory of Absolute Space	13
1. Absolute Motion and Absolute Space; Newton's First Presupposition	13
2. Proof of the Existence of a Vacuum; Newton's Second Presupposition	18
3. 'Density' and 'Quantity of Matter'	19
4. Proof of the Existence of Empty Space	20
5. The Essential Properties of a Particle in Empty Space; the Problem of Gravitation	21
6. Newton's Law of Inertia	24
7. A Single Particle in Empty Space; Newton's Fundamental Presupposition	27
II. Leibniz's Foundations of Dynamics	29
1. Leibniz's New Measure of Force	30

2. Descartes' Error and the Limits of the Conception of Leibniz	30
3. Action motrice	33
4. Leibniz's Law of Inertia	35
5. Absolute Motion and Absolute Space	37
6. Density	39
7. Laws of Impact, Elasticity, and the Concept of a Material Body	40
III. The Discussion Between Leibniz and Newton on the Concept of Science	44
1. Newton's Measure of Force and God's Intervention	44
2. Newton's Concept of Gravity and Space as the Sensorium Dei	47
3. Leibniz's Critique of the Unscientific Character of Newton's Philosophy	54
4. The Clock as a Scientific Model	59
5. Science and Unscientific Philosophy: Newton's Contradictory Views	66
6. Results	70
PART TWO / ELEMENT AND SYSTEM IN MODERN PHILOSOPHY
IV. The Concept of Element in 17th Century Natural Philosophy	77
1. Bacon	77
2. Descartes	79
3. Newton's Critique of Descartes; Boyle's Compromise	82
V. The Concept of Element in the Systematic Philosophy of Hobbes	85
VI. The Concept of Element in 18th Century Social Philosophy	92
1. Jean-Jacques Rousseau	92
2. Adam Smith	95
VII. The Relationship Between Natural and Social Philosophy in the Work of Newton, Rousseau, and Smith	98
PART THREE / ON THE SOCIAL HISTORY OF THE BOURGEOIS CONCEPT OF THE INDIVIDUAL
VIII. England Before the Revolution	108

TABLE OF CONTENTS

vii

1. Town, Country, and the Poor	108
2. The Politics of the Stuarts	110
3. The Church	111
4. Property and Protestantism Against Feudalism and Papism	112
5. Practical and Theoretical Struggle for Sovereignty	113
IX. The Antifeudal Social Philosophy of Hobbes	115
1. Thomas Aquinas' Doctrine of Nature as a Hierarchical Organ- ism of Unequal Elements	115
2. Thomas Aquinas' Doctrine of Society as a Hierarchical Organ- ism of Unequal Elements	117
3. Catholic Church and Nation State in the 17th Century	119
4. Hobbes's Theory of the State as a Contract of Equal and Autarchic Individuals	123
5. Hobbes's Political Program	132
6. The Controversy with Feudal Theory and the Analytic-Syn- thetic Method	135
X. The Rise of Civil Society in England	138
1. The Levellers	138
2. The Suppression of the Levellers	141
3. Restoration: Whigs and Tories	144
4. The Theoretical Controversies Between Whigs and Tories; Locke and Newton as Whigs	145
5. The Reign of the 'Plusmakers'	150
XI. Alternative Conceptions of Civil Society	153
1. The Capitalistic Commodity Production of Independent Proprietors: Adam Smith	153
2. The Simple Commodity Production of Independent Private Proprietors: Jean-Jacques Rousseau	158
XII. Civil Society and Analytic-Synthetic Method	161
1. Society as an Aggregate of Autarchic Individuals	161
2. Analysis as Determining the Properties of Single Individuals	162
3. Results	164

PART FOUR / ATOM AND INDIVIDUAL

XIII. The Bourgeois Individual and the Essential Properties of a Particle in Newton's Thought	173
1. Passivity and Activity as Essential Properties	173
2. Newton's 'Ego sum et cogito'	173
3. Freedom and Spontaneity	177
4. Will and Body; Active and Passive Principle	179
5. The System of 'Natural Freedom' in the State and in the World System	182
6. System of Philosophy	184
7. Newtonian Ideology	186
XIV. Element and System in the Philosophy of Leibniz	189
1. The 'Oppressed Counsellor'	190
2. On the Social Philosophy of Leibniz	191
3. The Double Sense of Representation in Mechanics and Metaphysics	196
Afterword	205
Notes	215
Bibliography of Works Cited	257
List of Abbreviations	265
Name Index	267
Subject Index	271