

Contents

Acknowledgements	viii
Introduction The Basis of Realism	ix
PART ONE
1 The English Novel in the Romantic Period	3
2 The Novels of Jane Austen: Conservatism and Innovation	12
3 Inspiration and Inhibition in the Novels of Walter Scott	25
PART TWO
4 Romantic to Victorian: the Novel after Scott	43
5 Edward Bulwer Lytton: Aspiration and Disaster	62
6 Rationalism and Real Life: the Fiction of Harriet Martineau	74
7 Frederick Denison Maurice, Romantic, Christian, Victorian	85
8 Thomas Carlyle, Prophet of the Real	96
PART THREE
9 The Development of Realist Fiction: from Dickens to George Meredith	115
10 The Realism of Dickens	139
11 The History of Henry Esmond : Thackeray's Anatomy of Sentimental Man	156

vi	Contents
12	George Eliot: the Philosophy of Realism	169
13	George Meredith: the Novelist as Internal Historian	184
	Conclusion The New Realism: Henry James's 'Straight Path'	201
	Notes	207
	Index of Names and Titles	217