
Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction	1
Targeting vulnerable individuals	2
Helping people to take control over their own lives	7
Making maximum use of natural, voluntary and community support networks	9
Disease models and transitional periods	14
Schizophrenia	16
Causes of depression: the Bedford College Model	17
The significance of the research	21
Opportunities for prevention	22
A note about prevention	25
1 Preventive work with under-fives and their families	26
Prediction and early identification of parenting difficulties, abuse and neglect	27
Optimum support	31
A brief outline of some innovative projects and services	34
The Child Development Programme	38
Befriending mothers: Newpin	48
Conclusion	58
2 Adolescence to independence	60
Possibilities for early preventive work by schools	62
Preventive work after school-leaving age	62
Young people leaving care: some statistics	64
Optimum support	66

Minimising risk: 1 – Support during the transition to independence: Bradford After-Care Team	67
Minimising risk: 2 – Support during and after pregnancy St Michael's Hostels, South London	82 85
Related issues: education	97
Summary	98
3 Supporting people through crises	99
Detecting psychiatric symptoms in general practice	102
What sort of help is needed by patients dealing with crisis?	105
Access to resources	124
4 Preventing relapse in schizophrenia	128
Introduction	128
Preventive interventions with sufferers of schizophrenia and their families: the research	130
Preventive interventions with people treated for schizophrenia and their families: the practice	134
A support group for those living with someone with schizophrenia	134
A comprehensive prevention programme as a component of a mental illness treatment service: West Birmingham	147
Conclusion	162
5 Preventing mental illnesses among elderly persons	164
The development of mental illness in old age	165
Focus of this chapter	167
Frailty, support and independence	169
Hawthorne House	171
The Kent/Gateshead Community Care Scheme	180
Summary	197
Conclusions: Prospects, pitfalls and possibilities	199
Factors influencing effectiveness	201
Possibilities: lessons about method	207
Bibliography	212
Name index	222
Subject index	225