

The New History and the Old

Gertrude Himmelfarb

*The Belknap Press of Harvard University Press
Cambridge, Massachusetts and London, England*

Contents

Introduction	1
1. "History with the Politics Left Out"	13
2. Clio and the New History	33
3. Two Nations or Five Classes: The Historian as Sociologist	47
4. The "Group": British Marxist Historians	70
5. Social History in Retrospect	94
Reflections of a Chastened Father	95
Recovering a Lost World	101
6. Case Studies in Psychohistory	107
Edmund Burke: An Ambivalent Conservative	108
James and John Stuart Mill: Ambivalent Rebels	113
7. Is National History Obsolete?	121
The Frenchness of France	122
The Englishness of England	132
8. Who Now Reads Macaulay?	143
9. History and the Idea of Progress	155
10. Does History Talk Sense?	171
Notes	185
Acknowledgments	205
Index of Names	206