

THE WORK
OF WRITING

Literature and Social Change
in Britain, 1700–1830

CLIFFORD/SISKIN

The Johns Hopkins University Press
Baltimore and London

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	ix
The Argument: Writing as a New Technology	i
PART ONE Disciplinary: The Political Economy of Knowledge
1. Writing Havoc	29
2. Engendering Disciplinary	54
3. Scottish Philosophy and English Literature	79
PART TWO Professionalism: The Poetics of Labor
4. The Georgic at Work	103
5. The Lyricization of Labor	130
PART THREE Novelism: Literature in the History of Writing
6. Periodicals, Authorship, and the Romantic Rise of the Novel	155
7. The Novel, the Nation, and the Naturalization of Writing	172
PART FOUR Gender: The Great Forgetting
8. What We Remember: The Case of Austen	193
9. How We Forgot: Reproduction and Reverse Vicariousness	210
Notes	229
Index	271