

Contents

Introduction	I
Acknowledgments	2
Chapter 1 Some Typical Pupils	3
Some Unusual Consequences	20
Further Comments	22
In Conclusion	24
Chapter 2 The Theory and Basic Procedures of Behaviour Modification	25
To Set the Record Straight	25
Reward and Punishment	26
Reinforcers	27
Ways of Decreasing Behaviour	28
Intermittent Reinforcement	31
Imitation, Chaining and Shaping	32
Generalization and Discrimination	35
Some Other Practices	37
Summary	43
Chapter 3 Translating the Principles and Procedures into Practice	44
Rewards and Punishments within the Schools	45
Effective Punishment	47
Effective Rewards	48
The Role of the Teacher in Behaviour Modification	49
The Secondary School	51
The Primary and Secondary School	53
Modifying the Behaviour of more than one Pupil	54
Academic Performance	54
The Selection of Reinforcers	56
Concluding Comments	57
Chapter 4 Measurement and Design	58
Measurement	59
Design	66
Examining Results	74
Summary	81

Chapter 5	Setting up an Investigation	82
	Guidelines for Setting up an Investigation	82
	Some Elaborations on the Guidelines	85
	Concluding Comments	90
Chapter 6	Selected Examples of Behaviour Modification in Schools	91
	The Primary School	91
	The Secondary School	104
	The Special School	114
	Research in other School Systems	119
	General Discussion	132
Chapter 7	Critical Comments, Questions and Answers	136
	Behaviour Modification seems to be Based upon Bribing Pupils	137
	Why should We reward Pupils who are Nuisances in Class?	139
	What gives the Teacher the Right to Modify a Pupil's Behaviour?	140
	Behaviour Modification denies Freedom of Choice	140
	Isn't there a Danger that Behaviour Modification Techniques can be Abused?	142
	Does Good Teaching necessarily involve the Practice of Behaviour Modification?	142
	What Happens to the Pupil who Moves to another Teacher after his Behaviour has been Successfully Modified?	144
	Behaviour Modification is too Simple	145
	Behaviour Modification is too Complex	146
	How can Teachers initiate Behaviour Modification in Schools?	147
	How Useful is it to have Observers other than the Teacher in the Classroom?	147
	Conclusions	149
	Where does Behaviour Modification go from Here?	149
References		151
Index		155