

Refining Milestone Mass Communications Theories for the 21st Century

Edited by
Ran Wei

Contents

Citation Information	vii
Notes on Contributors	xi
1. Introduction: Milestone Studies Define the Field Ran Wei	1
Part I: Classic Theories for the 21st Century
2. Back to the Street: When Media and Opinion Leave Home Elihu Katz	6
3. Cultivation Analysis: An Overview George Gerbner	16
4. Uses and Gratifications Theory in the 21st Century Thomas E. Ruggiero	36
5. Agenda-Setting, Priming, and Framing Revisited: Another Look at Cognitive Effects of Political Communication Dietram A. Scheufele	71
Part II: Enduring Research Streams
6. George Gallup and Ralph Nafziger: Pioneers of Audience Research Steven H. Chaffee	91
7. The Politics of Studying Media Violence: Reflections 30 Years After The Violence Commission Sandra J. Ball-Rokeach	102
8. Children and Media: On Growth and Gaps Ellen Wartella	118

CONTENTS

Part III: Reflections and Future Directions

9. Where Have All the Milestones Gone? The Decline of Significant Research on the Process and Effects of Mass Communication 126
Melvin L. DeFleur
10. The End of Mass Communication? 140
Steven H. Chaffee and Miriam J. Metzger
11. Reevaluating “The End of Mass Communication?” 155
Gabriel Weimann, Nirit Weiss-Blatt, Germaw Mengistu, Maya Mazor Tregerman, and Ravid Oren
12. Shifting Paradigms: Decentering the Discourse of Mass Communication Research 182
Hanno Hardt

- Index* 191