

Hybrid Tapestries

The Development of Pakistani
Literature in English

MUNEEZA SHAMSIE

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

CONTENTS

Preface	ix
Note on Contributor	xv
Introduction: Hybrid Influences	1
PART I PIONEERING WRITERS
1.1: Atiya Fyzee Rahamin (1877–1967)	25
1.2: Samuel Fyzee Rahamin (1880–1964)	39
1.3: Shahid Suhrawardy (1890–1965)	48
1.4: Ahmed Ali (1910–1994)	63
1.5: Mumtaz Shahnawaz (1912–1948)	89
1.6: Shaista Suhrawardy Ikramullah (1915–2000)	100
1.7: Zaib-un-Nissa Hamidullah (1921–2000)	111
1.8: Zulfikar Ghose	121
1.9: Taufiq Rafat (1927–1998)	151
1.10: Tariq Ali	172
1.11: Bapsi Sidhwa	195
1.12: Hanif Kureishi	212
1.13: Sara Suleri	243

PART II DEVELOPING GENRES

Poetry

- 2.1: Between Isolation and Internationalism 259
 Debut Writers: 1973–1997
- 2.2: In the Diaspora and New Voices in Pakistan 297
 Debut Writers: 1983–2011

The Novel

- 2.3: Early Struggles 337
 Debut Writers: 1934–1987
- 2.4: Migration, Minorities, and Global Politics 345
 Debut Writers: 1983–2010
- 2.5: A New Generation Writes Geopolitics and Globalism 382
 Debut Writers: 1998–2001
- 2.6: A Celebration of Talent 418
 Debut Writers: 2000–2011

The Short Story

- 2.7: Early Years: A Long Struggle 473
 Debut Writers: 1966–1992
- 2.8: The Nuances of Language 484
 Debut Writers: 1993–2011

Drama

- 2.9: Creating a Tradition 514
 Debut Writers: 1962–2011

Literary Non-fiction

- 2.10: Letters, Columns, and Memoirs 543
 Debut Writers: 1955–2011

- Conclusion: How the Literary Canon Grew: 1947–2011 594
 New Work in the New Decade: 2011–2014

- Glossary 616

- Bibliography 619

- Index 669