

Contents

I. GENERAL REMARKS ABOUT THE ASSIGNMENT OF VALUES . . . . .	1
Pervasiveness of evaluating attitudes . . . . .	1
Avoidance of ambivalent judgements . . . . .	4
The craving for the absolute . . . . .	6
The role of evaluation in action and influence . . . . .	15
The rules for our systematization . . . . .	16
II. MORAL NORMS GUARDING OUR BIOLOGICAL EXISTENCE . . . . .	22
The form and the scope of the norm which guards our existence . . . . .	22
The notion of homicide . . . . .	25
Recognized exceptions to the norm "do not kill" . . . . .	27
Attitude towards animals . . . . .	42
III. MORAL NORMS IN DEFENCE OF DIGNITY . . . . .	45
The importance of the problem . . . . .	45
Two meanings of dignity . . . . .	46
Examples of behaviour which offends dignity . . . . .	48
Dignity and personality . . . . .	53

A tentative definition of dignity in the sense we are concerned with here . . . . .	54
Dignity and honour . . . . .	57
Dignity as a sign of power . . . . .	58
Moral depreciation vs. degradation . . . . .	61
Two kinds of virtues . . . . .	62
The notion of a person . . . . .	65
Social conditions which promote or suppress the development of dignity . . . . .	66
The two rules in defence of dignity . . . . .	69
IV. MORAL NORMS WHICH PROTECT OUR INDEPENDENCE . . . . .	74
A bit of history . . . . .	74
Reflections upon concepts . . . . .	82
Two declarations of human rights . . . . .	87
Conclusions of a moralist . . . . .	92
The so-called positive freedom . . . . .	95
V. MORAL NORMS IN DEFENCE OF PRIVACY . . . . .	102
Importance of the problem in the modern world . . . . .	102
Three kinds of privacy . . . . .	104
Social conditions of the variable value attached to privacy . . . . .	109
VI. MORAL NORMS SERVING THE NEED FOR CONFIDENCE . . . . .	117
“Do not lie” . . . . .	118
The notion of truthfulness . . . . .	122
Hypocrisy and double-thinking . . . . .	127
Cheating . . . . .	129
Reliability . . . . .	130
“Do not steal” . . . . .	131
Deception . . . . .	135
Loyalty . . . . .	143
VII. MORAL NORMS GUARDING JUSTICE . . . . .	145
The principle suum cuique . . . . .	145
The principles of justice as principles of distribution . . . . .	148

The principle of justice as the principle governing the application of rules . . . . .	152
Justice and equality . . . . .	154
Justitia and caritas . . . . .	157
What was it that people fought for when they fought for social justice? . . . . .	159
Rules akin to the principles of justice . . . . .	161
A few psychological and sociological remarks about justice . . . . .	162
 VIII. MORAL NORMS AND SOCIAL CONFLICTS . . . . .	166
Coordinating character attributed to moral norms . . . . .	166
The notion of conflict . . . . .	168
The kinds of conflict . . . . .	170
The role of conflicts in social life . . . . .	175
The role of moral norms in the harmonization of social relations . . . . .	178
Do the moral norms work as a lubricant? . . . . .	182
The notion of harmony and the notion of integration . . . . .	183
 IX. SOFT VIRTUES SAFEGUARDING PEACEFUL COEXISTENCE . . . . .	187
Love of others . . . . .	187
General good will . . . . .	191
Brotherhood . . . . .	195
Tolerance . . . . .	196
Humanism . . . . .	204
Protectiveness . . . . .	207
 X. VIRTUES THAT FACILITATE THE ORGANIZATION OF LIFE IN THE COMMUNITY . . . . .	211
Reciprocity as the foundation of social structure . . . . .	211
Mutual aid . . . . .	216
Passive causation . . . . .	220
Solidarity . . . . .	221
Morale . . . . .	226
The obstacles on the road to cooperation . . . . .	228
Socialization and related notions . . . . .	230

XI. PERSONAL OR ORNAMENTAL VIRTUES . . .	234
Two kinds of virtues . . . . .	234
A few examples . . . . .	237
Two kinds of virtues or two kinds of evaluative attitudes . . . . .	240
The virtues which constitute the best guaranty of a person's moral standards in general . . . . .	241
XII. PRACTICAL VIRTUES . . . . .	244
XIII. MORAL NORMS CONCERNED WITH NORMS .	248
GENERAL CONCLUSIONS . . . . .	252
INDEX OF NAMES . . . . .	261