

CONTENTS

1	Introduction: Philosopher of Precision and Soul	1
	Leslie Marsh
2	Percy, Peirce, and Parsifal: Intuition's Farther Shore	21
	Stephen Utz
3	Walker Percy, Phenomenology, and the Mystery of Language	41
	Carolyn Culbertson
4	That Mystery Category "Fourthness" and Its Relationship to the Work of C. S. Peirce	63
	Stacey E. Ake
5	Diamonds in the Rough: The Peirce-Percy Semiotic in The Second Coming	89
	Karey Perkins
6	Walker Percy's Intersubjectivity: An Existential Semiotic or <math>3 + 3 = 4</math>	115
	Rhonda R. McDonnell

7	To Take the Writer's Meaning: An Unpublished Manuscript on "Peirce and Modern Semiotic" by Walker Percy	133
	Kenneth Laine Ketner
8	An Attempt Toward a Natural/Unnatural History of The Lay-Scientific Interface or How Walker Percy Got on the Way to Becoming a Radical (Anthropologist)	151
	Scott R. Cunningham
9	Percy's Poetics of Dwelling: The Dialogical Self and the Ethics of Reentry in The Last Gentleman and Lost in the Cosmos	171
	Christopher Yates
10	"There Must Be a Place": Walker Percy and the Philosophy of Place	197
	Patrick L. Connelly
11	On Being Jaded: Walker Percy's Philosophical Contributions	215
	Nathan P. Carson
12	Percy on the Allure of Violence and Destruction	251
	Brian A. Smith
	Name Index	271
	Subject Index	275