

International Security

Politics, Policy, Prospects

2nd Edition

Michael E. Smith

palgrave

Contents

List of Tables, Figures and Boxes	x
List of Abbreviations	xii
Preface	xvi
Acknowledgements	xx

Part I: Questions and Concepts

1 International Relations and International Security	3
International security: politics, policy and prospects	4
Theory and research design in international security	10
Evolution of the international security research agenda	13
2 Theory, Research and International Security: Continuity and Change	17
International security studies in the interwar period	18
International security studies and the Cold War	22
International security studies after the Cold War	28
Globalization and human security	42
Summary	48
3 The Politics of International Security	50
The politics of international security: basic assumptions	52
The value–threat relationship and international security	59
Stakeholders and international security	63
Political debates about international security	67
The politics of policy effectiveness	72
Summary	76

Part II: The Traditional International Security Agenda

4 Interstate War	81
Interstate war and international security	82
Stakeholder factors	89
Interstate war as a policy problem	97
The politics of policy effectiveness	102
Summary	110
Further reading	112

5	Intrastate War	113
	Intrastate war and international security	114
	Stakeholder factors	121
	Intrastate war as a policy problem	128
	The politics of policy effectiveness	138
	Summary	143
	Further reading	144
6	Weapons Proliferation	146
	Weapons proliferation and international security	146
	Stakeholder factors	155
	Proliferation as a policy problem	159
	The politics of policy effectiveness	170
	Summary	174
	Further reading	175
7	Terrorism	177
	Terrorism and international security	178
	Stakeholder factors	184
	International terrorism as a policy problem	191
	The politics of policy effectiveness	201
	Summary	207
	Further reading	209
8	Cybersecurity and Cyberwar	210
	Information, the internet and international security	211
	Stakeholder factors	219
	Cyberspace as a policy problem	225
	The politics of policy effectiveness	234
	Summary	236
	Further reading	238
Part III: The New/Human Security Agenda
9	Organized Crime	241
	Organized crime and international security	242
	Stakeholder factors	247
	International crime as a policy problem	254
	The politics of policy effectiveness	264
	Summary	268
	Further reading	269
10	Economic Security	271
	International economics and international security	272
	Stakeholder factors	277

International economic security as a policy problem	284
The politics of policy effectiveness	292
Summary	297
Further reading	299
11 Environmental and Resource Security	300
The environment, natural resources and international security	301
Stakeholder factors	309
The environment and resource depletion as policy problems	315
The politics of policy effectiveness	324
Summary	328
Further reading	330
12 Public Health	332
Public health and international security	333
Stakeholder factors	340
International public health as a policy problem	344
The politics of policy effectiveness	352
Summary	358
Further reading	359
13 International Population Trends	360
International population trends and international security	360
Stakeholder factors	371
Population trends as a policy problem	376
The politics of policy effectiveness	383
Summary	387
Further reading	389
Conclusion: The Future of International Security Studies	391
The unsteady state of international security studies	393
The future international security research agenda	398
From international security to human security – and back again?	404
Bibliography	408
Index	448