

Contents

List of figures	vii
Series editor's preface	x
Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction	1
1 The bass and the early mechanical roots of jazz (1915–1930)	12
2 The bass, technology and the development of the rhythm section (1930–1945)	32
3 The spoils of war and the jazz bass: tape recorders and editing (1945–1960)	51
4 The electrification of the bass: behold the illegitimate cousin (1954–1970)	72
5 The jazz bass, multi-track recording technology and fusion (1969–1976)	96
6 Jaco Pastorius: the electric jazz bass attains respectability (1976–1985)	120
7 The Young Lions and the technological backlash (1980–1990)	145
8 Pro Tools, computers and the bass (1990–2005)	159

vi	Contents
9	The future of the jazz bassist	177
	Conclusion	189
	Appendix	195
	Bibliography	201
	Index	216