

Contents

Introduction	1
1 Husserl's Ethics as an A Priori Science	15
1. Introduction	15
2. Science	26
3. Axiology, ethics and a priori	36
Summary	40
2 Parallelism and Interlacing in Husserl's Axiology	41
1. Introduction	41
2. A reading of the first two paragraphs of the lectures on ethics and value theory	42
3. Lotze's idea of parallelism	46
4. Two-layered parallelism	53
5. Conclusions	59
Summary	61
3 Norms, Laws and Necessity	63
1. Introduction	63
2. Science, norms and laws	63
3. Norms and laws	65
4. Norms, laws and psychologism	66
5. Categorical imperative	68
6. Norms and values	71
7. Normativity as a space of meaning	73
Summary	78
4 Living Evidence	79
1. Introduction	79
2. Evidence in descriptive (1900–13) and transcendental phenomenology (1913–38)	81
3. 'Functioning evidence' in Husserl's later works	92
4. Conclusion: The criticism concerning Husserl's idea of evidence	98
Summary	100

5	Practical Intentionality	101
	1. Introduction	101
	2. The riddle of transcendence	103
	3. Intentional essence	107
	4. Hyletic or practical intentionality	119
	5. Practical and passive intentionality	135
	Summary	137
6	The Body and the Ethical Agent	139
	1. Introduction	139
	2. Nature and spirit	139
	3. The body	142
	4. Affection, awakening and propagation	150
	5. A synthetic description	154
	Summary	159
7	'The Truth of Will'	161
	1. Introduction	161
	2. Willing	164
	3. From my will to a community	177
	Summary	195
8	Intersubjectivity	197
	1. Introduction	197
	2. Meaning of intentionality from Brentano to Husserl	198
	3. Empathy and the experience of the otherness	202
	4. Intersubjective reduction and the life-world	204
	5. Conclusion	206
	Summary	206
9	Social Ethics, Teleology and Theology	209
	1. Introduction	209
	2. Social ethics	210
	3. Rational and irrational ethics	212
	4. Teleology, theology and intersubjectivity	215
	5. Transcendental humanity and theological psychologism	217
	Summary	221
	Notes	223
	Bibliography	241
	Index	263