

Adapting to the Stage: Theatre and the Work of Henry James

Christopher Greenwood

Studies in European Cultural Transition

Volume Four

General Editors: Martin Stannard and Greg Walker

 Routledge
Taylor & Francis Group
LONDON AND NEW YORK

Contents

Abbreviations	vii
Acknowledgements	viii
Introduction: Abandoning the Soliloquy/Staging the Narrator	1
Part I Two Contexts: the Theatre and the Oeuvre	23
1 Psychological Space in 'The Summersoft Group' and the Late Plays	25
2 1881–94: Well-made Drama	53
3 'A Projected Form': Ellipsis and the Fourth Wall	96
4 Conclusion: Abandoning the Soliloquy	116
Part II 'The Theatrical Straitjacket': The Other House and The Spoils of Poynton	125
5 The 'Cultivation of Limits'	127
6 The Other House : Psychology Embodied	148
7 Fleda's Sense of the Past: The 'Poetry of . . . Something Sensibly Gone '	160
8 Conclusion: The Material Self	174
Bibliography	181
Index	191