

Contents

Introduction	1
1. Paul's Interlocutor(s) in Romans 2: The Scholarly Debate	1
2. A Macrostructural, Author-Audience Relational Approach: The Context of Ancient Epistolography	5
3. The Procedure of the Study	10

Chapter One

The Epistolary Structure and Setting of Romans	13
Introduction	13
1. Epistolary Structure in Greco-Roman Antiquity.	18
1.1. Epistolary Opening	19
1.2. Epistolary Closing	22
1.3. Epistolary Body	22
2. Epistolary Structure of Paul's Letters: Three, Four, or Five Letter Parts?	24

3. Epistolary Structure of Romans	31
3.1. Epistolary Opening (1:1–7).	31
3.1.1. The Superscription (1:1) and the Identification of the Sender	32
3.1.2. The Opening Extension (1:2–6) and the Εὐαγγέλιον Θεοῦ	34
3.1.3. The Adscription (1:7a) and the Identification of the Recipients	37
3.2. Epistolary Body (1:8–15:33)	39
3.2.1. The Transition To and Beginning of the Body	41
3.2.2. The Παρακαλῶ Sentence in 12:1–2	47
3.2.3. The Confidence Expression and Visiting Theme in 15:14–29	54
3.2.4. The Παρακαλῶ Sentence in 15:30–32 and the Closing of the Body (15:33)	58
3.3. Epistolary Closing (16:1–24)	60
3.3.1. The Introduction of Phoebe (16:1–2)	61
3.3.2. Closing Greetings (16:3–16, 21–23).	63
3.3.3. The Admonition in 16:17–20: A Foreign Text?	66
4. Epistolary Setting of Romans	70
4.1. Classifications of Ancient Letters: Some Problems and Benefits	71
4.2. Ancient Epistolary Settings and Paul’s Letter to the Romans	74
4.2.1. Fictitious Settings and Paul’s Letter	75
4.2.2. Extended Settings and Paul’s Letter	76
4.2.3. Normative Settings and Paul’s Letter	82
Concluding Summary.	84

Chapter Two

The Intended Audience of Romans	87
Introduction	87
1. Presuppositions in the Study of Paul's Audience: The Composition of "Roman Christianity"	91
1.1. Romans 14–15 and the Claudian Edict	92
1.2. Paul's Greetings in Romans 16	98
1.3. The Distinction between the Composition of "Roman Christianity" and Paul's Intended Audience	99
2. Paul's Intended Audience according to Romans	100
2.1. Explicit References to the Letter's Audience	102
2.1.1. Romans 1:5–7	102
2.1.2. Romans 1:13–14a, 14b–15	106
2.1.3. Romans 11:13	109
2.1.4. Romans 15:15–16	111
2.2. Implicit References to the Letter's Audience	113
2.2.1. Jewish Issues and Scriptural References in Romans	114
2.2.2. Various Potential References to the Letter's Audience	116
Concluding Summary	121