

Contents

Introduction: Reading Poetry	page 1
Using This Book	1
Why Read Poetry?	2
What Is a Poem?	9
Understanding Poetry	12
Connecting with Poetry	15
I Reading a Poem	19
What Does the Poem Say?	19
How Does the Poem Begin?	22
What Kind of Poem Is It?	25
What Is the Poem about?	30
What Language Does the Poem Use?	35
Do We Need a Dictionary?	41
How Does the Poem Develop?	45
How Does the Syntax Shape the Sense?	51
Is the Sense Clear?	55
How Is the Sense Organised into Lines?	60
Does the Sense Flow over the Line Endings?	65
How Do the Lines Move?	68
What Are the Rhythms within the Lines?	71
How Can We Describe the Rhythms?	77
Do the Lines Play Variations on the Metre?	83
How Does the Metre Give Character to the Poem?	92
Does the Poem Rhyme?	99
What Kinds of Rhyme Does the Poem Use?	105
How Does the Poem Sound?	110
What Is the Poem's Form?	114
Is the Poem Composed in Blank Verse?	119
Is the Poem in Rhyming Couplets?	123
Is the Poem Composed in Stanzas?	127
Is the Poem in Free Verse?	132
Who Is Speaking?	136

Does the Poem Dramatise a Voice?	140
Who Does the Poem Address?	144
What Is the Poem's Tone?	148
How Does the Poem Convey Feeling?	154
How Does the Poem Handle Images?	159
Does the Poem Use Figurative Language?	164
Does the Poem Tell a Story?	168
How Does the Poem Depict Character?	174
When Was the Poem Written?	177
How Does the Poem Balance the Old and the New?	185
How Does the Poem End?	191
2 Studying a Poet	201
Reading Emily Brontë	201
Reading about Emily Brontë	206
Reading Criticism	208
Reading a Contemporary Poet: Srinivas Rayaprol	210
3 Writing about Poetry	218
Whose Voice Should You Use?	218
How Do You Develop Ideas?	219
What Are You Trying to Achieve?	220
What Sort of Plan Should You Make?	223
How Should You Begin?	223
Informing and Arguing	224
The Body of the Essay	227
How Should You End?	228
How Should You Review Your Work?	229
Epilogue: What Should You Read?	233
Glossary of Common Forms and Genres	236
Further Reading	238
Copyright Permissions	241
Index	244