

CONTENTS

	Page
Introduction . . . . .	1
The story of Creation (1:1-2:4(a)) . . . . .	5
The sovereignty of God (1:1-2:4(a)) (cont'd) . . . . .	5
Genesis and science (1:1-2:4(a)) (cont'd) . . . . .	8
Genesis and "myth" (1:1-2:4(a)) (cont'd) . . . . .	10
On translating the Bible's first two verses (1:1-2) . . . . .	14
In the beginning God (1:1-2) (cont'd) . . . . .	18
The transcendence of God (1:1-2) (cont'd) . . . . .	19
New every morning (1:1-2) (cont'd) . . . . .	23
The problem of Genesis Chapter One verse two (1:1-2) (cont'd) . . . . .	25
The dimension of evil (1:1-2) (cont'd) . . . . .	28
Chaos . . . . . (1:1-2) (cont'd) . . . . .	31
. . . . . confronted by God (1:1-2) (cont'd) . . . . .	34
A Gospel in embryo (1:1-2) (cont'd) . . . . .	37
The first of days—And God said (1:3-5) . . . . .	39
The first of days—Let there be light! (1:3-5) (cont'd) . . . . .	43
The first of days—And God saw that it was good (1:3-5) (cont'd) . . . . .	45
The first of days—And God called (1:3-5) (cont'd) . . . . .	47
On matters of style and structure (1:6-25) . . . . .	49
The harmony of Creation (1:6-25) (cont'd) . . . . .	53
The days of Creation (1:6-25) (cont'd) . . . . .	54
A story for children? (1:6-25) (cont'd) . . . . .	57
God's free grace (1:6-25) (cont'd) . . . . .	60
According to their kinds (1:6-25) (cont'd) . . . . .	62
And God blessed them (1:6-25) (cont'd) . . . . .	65
A note on the phrase "be fruitful and multiply" . . . . .	68
A note on words for "man" in Hebrew and English . . . . .	69
"Man"—the creature of God (1:26-31) . . . . .	70
"Man"—the image and likeness of God (1:26-31) (cont'd) . . . . .	74
"Man"—the viceroy of God (1:26-31) (cont'd) . . . . .	77
Let us make . . . . . (1:26-31) (cont'd) . . . . .	82
A note on the "image" in the New Testament . . . . .	84
Male and female (1:26-31) (cont'd) . . . . .	85
I have given every green plant (1:26-31) (cont'd) . . . . .	87
The Sabbath rest of God (2:1-4(a)) . . . . .	90

The story of the Garden of Eden (2:4(b)–3:24) . . . . .	93
On style in Genesis Chapters Two and Three (2:4(b)–3:24) (cont'd) . . . . .	94
On structure in Genesis Chapters Two and Three (2:4(b)–3:24) (cont'd) . . . . .	97
On how to interpret Genesis Chapters Two and Three (2:4(b)–3:24) (cont'd) . . . . .	99
“Man’s” dependence on God (2:4(b)–7) . . . . .	101
The garden of delight (2:8–15) . . . . .	104
The trees of life and knowledge (2:8–15) (cont'd) . . . . .	107
“Man’s” task in the garden (2:8–15) (cont'd) . . . . .	111
God’s condition for life in Paradise (2:16–17) . . . . .	112
One with nature (2:18–25) . . . . .	115
One flesh (2:18–25) (cont'd) . . . . .	117
This dark world of sin (3:1–7) . . . . .	120
That ancient prince of Hell (3:1–7) (cont'd) . . . . .	124
They knew that they were naked (3:1–7) (cont'd) . . . . .	126
The sin discovered (3:8–13) . . . . .	130
The reckoning—the serpent (3:14–15) . . . . .	132
The reckoning—the woman and the man (3:16–19) . . . . .	136
Paradise Lost (3:20–24) . . . . .	139
Cain and Abel (4:1–2) . . . . .	141
I will be gracious to whom I will be gracious (4:3–7) . . . . .	144
The inexorable march of sin (4:8–16) . . . . .	148
The mark on Cain (4:8–16) (cont'd) . . . . .	151
The genealogies of Chapters Four and Five (4:17–26; 5:1–32) . . . . .	153
Lamech, Seth, Enoch and another Lamech (4:17–26; 5:1–32) (cont'd) . . . . .	157
Giants in the earth (6:1–4) . . . . .	159
Introductory to the story of the Flood (6:5–9:19) . . . . .	162
The “P” version of the Flood (6:5–9:19) (cont'd) . . . . .	165
Style and structure in the “P” version (6:5–9:19) (cont'd) . . . . .	168
The “J” version and its style and structure (6:5–9:19) (cont'd) . . . . .	171
Archaeology and the Flood (6:5–9:19) (cont'd) . . . . .	174
The Mesopotamian story of the Flood I (6:5–9:19) (cont'd) . . . . .	178
The Mesopotamian story of the Flood II (6:5–9:19) (cont'd) . . . . .	182
Where sin abounded . . . . . (6:5–7, 11–13) . . . . .	185
. . . . . grace did much more abound (6:8–9; 7:1) . . . . .	188
Even the righteous are scarcely saved (8:21–22; 9:1–17) . . . . .	191
Our God is a consuming fire (8:21–22; 9:1–17) (cont'd) . . . . .	195

CONTENTS

ix

Thoughts on the Hebrew table of the nations I (9:20–29; 10:1–32) . . . . .	197
Thoughts on the Hebrew table of the nations II (9:20–29; 10:1–32) ( cont'd ) . . . . .	201
The Babylonian tower of Babel (11:1–9) . . . . .	204
The Hebrew tower of Babel (11:1–9) ( cont'd ) . . . . .	208
Towards the future (11:10–32) . . . . .	210
Further Reading . . . . .	213

ILLUSTRATIONS

Figures

1 The world as the Hebrews conceived it . . . . .	30
2 Mesopotamia . . . . .	175
3 The table of the nations . . . . .	200
4 The ziggurat of Babylon . . . . .	206