

CONTENTS

Introduction	xi
Abbreviations	xiv
 I. The Influence of Rabbinic Sources	 1
A. Survey of the Sources	1
B. Mendelssohn: beginnings of the modern pattern . . .	11
C. From Jost to Hirsch	14
D. The Crisis of the 1860s	27
1. The contribution of Graetz	27
2. The contribution of Derenbourg	33
3. The contribution of Geiger	36
E. From the 1860s to Klausner	37
1. The influence of Graetz	38
2. American development under I. M. Wise	41
3. The effect of Derenbourg	44
4. The political theory from Philippson onwards . . .	47
5. The position of Jewish converts to Christianity . .	51
F. The Klausner debate	54
G. From Klausner to the present day.	64
1. Later Klausnerian/Talmudic schemes	64
2. Total dismissal of the Talmudic sources	69
3. The political reinterpretation of the sources	70
 II. The Question of the Charge against Jesus in the Sanhedrin	 72
A. The Son of God Question	72
1. The background of the term.	76
2. Jesus and divine Sonship	78
B. Messiah and Son of God.	86
1. Two different charges: Messiah and Son of God . .	86
2. Messiah transcendent with variations on the Son of God theme	90
3. Son of God a title of the normal Messiah	98
C. The Messianic Condemnation.	101
1. A Jewish condemnation for a Messianic claim . . .	101
2. The full political reconstruction	113
D. Evaluation of the Charge	126
1. Speaking against the Temple	126
2. The claim to be Messiah	132
3. The assumption of the Divine Name	132

4. The self-exaltation as the enthroned Son of man . . .	135
5. The claim to be Son of God	141
Appendix: Jews and Romans in the Arrest of Jesus . . .	148
 III. The Problem of the Sanhedrin Hearing in Luke.	153
A. Introduction	153
B. Peter's Denial: Lk 22.54b-61 = Mk 14.54,66-72 . . .	160
1. The common vocabulary	161
2. The time scheme	166
3. The geographical structure	168
4. The challengers	172
5. αὐτόν (Lk 22.63)	174
C. The Mockery of Jesus: Lk 22.63-65 = Mk 14.65 . . .	174
1. The agents of mockery	176
2. The action of mockery	179
3. The verbal taunts	182
D. The Sanhedrin hearing: Lk 22.66-71 = Mk 14.53b, 55-64, 15.1a	183
1. The setting in Luke's overall presentation	184
2. The time note ὡς ἐγένετο ἡμέρα, Lk 22.66	186
3. Lk 22.66 in relation to Mk 14.53b, 15.1a	190
4. The connection between Lk 22.66 and 22.67 . . .	193
5. The interrogation: Lk 22.67f,70	193
6. The end of the hearing	200
7. The origin of Lk 22.54a	202
E. Jewish Use of the Lukan tradition	203
F. Winter on the Lukan tradition	208
1. Winter's general view of Luke's method	208
2. Winter's analysis of the Passion narrative	212
3. Winter on Lk 22.66-71	215
4. Winter on the mockery	218
 IV. The Legal Setting of the Trial of Jesus.	221
A. From Mendelssohn to Geiger	221
B. From Geiger to Juster	232
C. Juster and Husband onwards	236
1. j.Sanh. 1.1, 7.2	238
2. Sanh. 7.2: the execution of the priest's daughter . .	239
3. The temple inscription	240
4. Josephus, Ant. 18.81	241
5. Josephus, Ant. 20.200-203: the death of James . . .	241
6. Josephus, B.J. 2.145: Essene practice	244
7. Josephus, B.J. 6.300-309: the case of Jesus ben Ananios	245
8. Megh. Taan. 6	245
9. The penalty of strangulation	245

10. Jn 18.31	247
11. The death of Stephen	248
12. The proceedings against Paul	250
 V. Conclusion	 261
Appendix	272
Jewish Bibliography	279
Reviews of Paul Winter, On the Trial of Jesus	296
Non-Jewish Bibliography	297
Index of Passages cited.	301
Index of Authors	316