

Contents

Preface	v
Acknowledgements	vi
I. ANOREXIA NERVOSA AS AN ILLNESS
Chapter 1. Introduction	3
Chapter 2. Immediate Clinical Features of the Condition: Physical, Behavioural, Experiential	11
Chapter 3. Epidemiology and Natural History	21
II. BACKGROUND TO THE DISORDER
Chapter 4. Childhood Bodily Growth and the Pubertal Process	37
Chapter 5. Childhood Eating and Social Experiences	42
Chapter 6. Existential Aspects of Maturation	49
Chapter 7. The Maturation Crisis in Anorexia Nervosa	63
III. MECHANISM AND PROCESSES WITHIN ANOREXIA NERVOSA
Chapter 8. An Attempted Explanation of the Immediate Experiential and hence also the Behavioural and Physical Features of the Condition	77
Chapter 9. The Concept of it as Adaptive	84
IV. INTERVENTION AND SELF HELP
Chapter 10. Making the Diagnosis	91
Chapter 11. Attempting to Create an Opportunity for Develop- ment and Change—the Kindling Process	95
Chapter 12. The Rights of the “Patient”	147
Chapter 13. Self-help Techniques.	150
Chapter 14. Factors Affecting Outcome	153
Chapter 15. The “Patient” Speaks	159
Appendix I. (a) Average Body Weights at Different Ages and Heights	189
(b) Units of Weight	191
Appendix II. Author’s Scientific and Review Publications	192