

CONTENTS

Introduction

Mary Jansen and John Weinman .....	vii
---	-----

Section 1: International Developments in Health Psychology

1. An International Review of the Emergence and Development of Health Psychology

George C. Stone .....	3
------------------------------	---

2. Psychology, Health and Health Care

René F. W. Diekstra .....	19
----------------------------------	----

3. Health Psychology within the European Health Care System

Lothar R. Schmidt and Gabriele E. Dlugosch .....	33
---	----

4. Health Psychology in Australia

Brian Oldenburg and Neville Owen .....	53
---	----

5. Health Psychology in Chinese Societies in Asia

Fanny M. Cheung .....	63
------------------------------	----

6. Cuban Health Psychology: A Priority is the Primary Health Care System

Sølvi Kristiansen and Kerstin Sjøderstrøm .....	75
--	----

Section 2: Training within Health Psychology

7. Undergraduate Health Psychology: Another Challenge for an Ambitious Field

Thomas N. Dorsel and Andrew Baum .....	85
---	----

- 8. Issues in Training Clinical Health Psychologists
Cynthia D. Belar ..... 91
- 9. Training Research Health Psychologists
Stan Maes and France Kittel ..... 99
- 10. Training in Health Psychology: An International Look
Gerda J. Methorst, Mary A. Jansen and Ad J.F.M. Kerkhof .....111

Section 3: Health Psychology Training for Other Health Professionals

- 11. Training Health Professionals in Health Psychology
Hal Swerrison and Peter Foreman .....125
- 12. Health Psychology for Medical Students
Helen R. Winefield .....135
- 13. Implementing a Behavioural Medicine Program in an Internal Medicine Residency
John Christensen and Wendy Levinson .....145

Section 4: Concluding Overview

- 14. Determinants of Health Psychology's Development
John Weinman .....159
- 15. Health Psychology in International Perspective: Summary and Thoughts for the Future
Mary A Jansen, Gerda J. Methorst and Ad J.F.M. Kerkhof .....165