

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	vii
Note on the Texts	viii
General Introduction	1
1 Antiquity and the Middle Ages	7
1.1 Plato, The Republic (c.380–360 BCE)	12
1.2 Aristotle, Poetics (c.350–330 BCE)	18
1.3 Horace, The Art of Poetry (c.10 BCE)	29
1.4 Longinus, On the Sublime (c.50–70 CE)	34
1.5 Evanthius, 'On Drama' (fourth century CE)	40
1.6 Augustine, 'On Stage-Plays' (397–400 CE)	42
2 The Early Modern Period	45
2.1 Giovan Battista Giraldi Cinthio, Discourse or Letter on the Composition of Comedies and Tragedies (1555)	50
2.2 Lodovico Castelvetro, The Poetics of Aristotle (1570)	55
2.3 Stephen Gosson, Plays Confuted in Five Actions (1582)	62
2.4 Philip Sidney, Defense of Poetry (1595)	66
2.5 Thomas Heywood, The Apology for Actors (1612)	70
2.6 Pierre Corneille, Three Discourses on Dramatic Poetry (1660)	74
2.7 John Milton, 'Of That Sort of Dramatic Poem Which Is Called Tragedy' (1671)	80
2.8 René Rapin, Reflections on Aristotle's Treatise of Poesie (1674)	83
2.9 John Dryden, 'The Grounds of Criticism in Tragedy' (1679)	88
3 The Eighteenth Century	95
3.1 Joseph Addison and Richard Steele, The Spectator (1711–14)	100
3.2 George Lillo, 'The Dedication' and 'Prologue' to The London Merchant (1731)	107
3.3 Voltaire, 'Letter XVIII. On Tragedy' (c.1733)	111
3.4 David Hume, 'Of Tragedy' (1757)	114
3.5 Edmund Burke, 'Sympathy', 'Of the Effects of Tragedy' and 'The Sublime' (1757)	120
3.6 Jean-Jacques Rousseau, Letter to M. D'Alembert on the Theatre (1758)	126
3.7 Samuel Johnson, 'Preface to Shakespeare' (1765)	131
3.8 Elizabeth Montagu, An Essay on the Writings and Genius of Shakespeare (1769)	137
3.9 Joanna Baillie, 'Introductory Discourse' (1798)	141

4	The Nineteenth Century	147
4.1	August Wilhelm Schlegel, A Course of Lectures on Dramatic Art and Literature (1809–11)	152
4.2	Charles Lamb, 'On the Tragedies of Shakespeare Considered with Reference for Their Fitness for Stage Representation' (1811)	160
4.3	William Hazlitt, Characters of Shakespeare's Plays (1817)	165
4.4	Arthur Schopenhauer, The World as Will and Representation (1819)	169
4.5	Percy Bysshe Shelley, A Defence of Poetry (1821)	174
4.6	G.W.F. Hegel, Aesthetics: Lectures on Fine Art (1823–9)	179
4.7	George Eliot, 'The Antigone and Its Moral' (1856)	188
4.8	Friedrich Nietzsche, The Birth of Tragedy (1872)	192
5	1900 to 1968	201
5.1	Sigmund Freud, The Interpretation of Dreams (1900)	205
5.2	A.C. Bradley, Shakespearean Tragedy (1904)	210
5.3	William Butler Yeats, 'The Tragic Theatre' (1910)	216
5.4	Virginia Woolf, 'On Not Knowing Greek' (1925)	220
5.5	Bertolt Brecht, A Short Organum for the Theatre (1948)	226
5.6	Robert Warshow, 'The Gangster as Tragic Hero' (1948)	235
5.7	George Steiner, Death of Tragedy (1961)	239
5.8	Athol Fugard, 'On A View from the Bridge' (1963)	243
5.9	Raymond Williams, Modern Tragedy (1966)	245
6	Post-1968	251
6.1	René Girard, 'The Sacrificial Crisis' (1972)	256
6.2	Augusto Boal, The Theatre of the Oppressed (1974)	264
6.3	Joseph Meeker, 'Literary Tragedy and Ecological Catastrophe' (1974)	270
6.4	Catherine Belsey, The Subject of Tragedy (1985)	275
6.5	Nicole Loraux, 'The Rope and the Sword' (1985)	278
6.6	Biodun Jeyifo, 'Tragedy, History and Ideology' (1986)	286
6.7	Hélène Cixous, 'Enter the Theatre (in between)' (1999)	291
6.8	Judith Butler, Antigone's Claim (2002)	297
6.9	David Scott, Conscripts of Modernity (2004)	305
6.10	Martha Nussbaum, 'The "Morality of Pity"' (2008)	310
	Supplementary Reading	319
	List of Sources	324
	Permissions Acknowledgements	329
	Index	332