

Contents

Notes on contributors	page xi
A note on references	xv
Frederick Burwick and Paul Douglass: Introduction	1
Part I Historical background
1 George Rousseau: The perpetual crises of modernism and the traditions of Enlightenment vitalism: with a note on Mikhail Bakhtin	15
Mikhail Bakhtin: Contemporary vitalism
2 Jack H. Haeger: Samuel Taylor Coleridge and the Romantic background to Bergson	98
3 Frederick Burwick: Sir Charles Bell and the vitalist controversy in the early nineteenth century	109
4 Frederick Amrine: "The triumph of life": Nietzsche's verbicide	131
Part II Vitalism in twentieth-century philosophy and science
5 Maria de Issekutz Wolsky and Alexander A. Wolsky: Bergson's vitalism in the light of modern biology	153
6 Milič Čapek: Microphysical indeterminacy and freedom: Bergson and Peirce	171
7 Jürgen Klein: Vitalism, empiricism, and the quest for reality in German and English philosophy	190
8 P.A.Y. Gunter: Bergson and Sartre: The rise of French existentialism	230
9 Joseph Chiari: Vitalism and contemporary thought	245

Part III Vitalism in twentieth-century literature and aesthetics

10 Sanford Schwartz: Bergson and the politics of vitalism	277
11 Richard Lehan: Bergson and the discourse of the moderns	306
12 Joseph N. Riddel: Modern times: Stein, Bergson, and the ellipses of "American" writing	330
13 Paul Douglass: Deleuze's Bergson: Bergson redux	368
Index	389