

CONTENTS

Introduction: Lothar Bredella & Werner Delanoy	vii
Lothar Bredella (University of Giessen, Germany) The Anthropological and Pedagogical Significance of Aesthetic Reading in the Foreign Language Classroom	1
Michael Benton (University of Southampton, Great Britain) The Discipline of Literary Response: Approaches to Poetry with L2 Students	30
Arti Kumar (St. Xavier's College at Ahmedabad, India) Cohesive/Diversive Groups: Different Reading Strategies	45
Werner Delanoy (University of Klagenfurt, Austria) The Complexity of Literature Teaching in the Language Classroom: A Reflective Practitioner's View	62
Michael K. Legutke (University of Giessen, Germany) "Welcome to the Holden Show...": Learner Texts and the Teaching of Literature in the EFL Classroom	91
Nancy Campbell (University of Graz, Austria) Narration and Narrators: How Learners Perceive Speakers in Narrative Texts	108
Henry G. Widdowson (University of London and Essex, Great Britain) Barbara Seidlhofer (University of Vienna, Austria) Poetic Translation and Language Pedagogy	125
Jürgen Donnerstag (University of Cologne, Germany) Improving the Expressive Competence of Foreign-Language Learners through Literary Reading	144
Claire Kramsch (University of California at Berkeley, USA) Stylistic Choice and Cultural Awareness	162
Kamakshi P. Murti (University of Arizona at Tuscon, USA) Teaching Literature at the First-Year Graduate Level: The Quantum Leap from Language to Literature	185

Arno Heller (University of Graz, Austria) Reading between the Lines: An Integral Approach to Teaching Melville's "Benito Cereno"	205
John McRae (University of Nottingham, Great Britain) Dances with Thorns: New Perspectives on the Teaching of New Literatures	227
Hans Weber (University of Wuppertal, Germany) Gardeners in the DaF-Classroom: Poems and Stories in Intercultural Learning	233
Authors	248
Index	252