
Contents

Acknowledgements	viii
Introduction	1
Outline of the book	5
Part I Doing it my way
1 The dying of death	9
Rationalisation	9
Medicalisation	12
Secularisation	14
Individualism	16
Rationality versus individualism	22
2 The revival of death	26
The authority of the self	27
The dying self	28
The deceased self	33
The bereaved self	34
Medicine subjectifies the patient	37
3 The two strands of revival	39
Late-modern revival	39
Postmodern revival	40
Self and reflexivity	44
4 Traditional, modern and neo-modern death	47
Ideal types	47
Bodily context	49
Social context	51
Authority	54

Coping	55
The journey	57
Values	59
Contradictions between types	60
Ideal types and historical change	63
Part II Keeping on listening
5 Stories and meta-stories	69
The famous five	70
Good grief	78
Stories and stages	84
6 Systems for listening	87
Hospices	87
Teamwork	90
The therapeutic gaze	92
A spiritual gaze?	98
The nursing process	103
7 Expectations and assumptions	108
Models of the good death	109
Does the person die when the body dies?	116
8 The listening community or the defining community?	121
Learning from others in the same boat	124
Learning from the professionals	131
9 Gaining control, losing control	139
The dying person	139
The professional carer	143
10 Which person?	150
The dying versus the survivors	151
Euthanasia	152
The funeral	156
Who are 'the bereaved'?	157
11 Routinisation	162
Bureaucratisation	163
Professionalisation	164
Finance	166
Audit	167
Continuity of mission	168
Replacing the founder	169

Secularisation	170
Traditionalism	171
12 Disposal	174
From ritual to discourse	177
From discourse to ritual	180
13 Conclusion: facing death without tradition . . . but in company	185
The argument of the book	185
A universal fear?	187
Come fly with me	189
The company	190
A new community?	193
Experts and radicals	198
Glossary	201
Notes	205
Bibliography	209
Index	223