

Contents

Introduction: The Emergence of Quaker Writing	Thomas N. Corns and David Loewenstein	1
Patterns of Quaker Authorship, 1652–56	Kate Peters	6
The War of the Lamb: George Fox and the Apocalyptic Discourse of Revolutionary Quakerism	David Loewenstein	25
Margaret Fell Fox and Feminist Literary History: A “Mother in Israel” Calls to the Jews	Judith Kegan Gardiner	42
Hidden Things Brought to Light: Enthusiasm and Quaker Discourse	Nigel Smith	57
From Seeker to Finder: The Singular Experiences of Mary Penington	Norman T. Burns	70
Handmaids of the Lord and Mothers in Israel: Early Vindications of Quaker Women’s Prophecy	Elaine Hobby	88
“No Man’s Copy”: The Critical Problem of Fox’s Journal	Thomas N. Corns	99
The Politic and the Polite in Quaker Prose: The Case of William Penn	N.H. Keeble	112
Joseph Besse and the Quaker Culture of Suffering	John R. Knott	126
Early Quakerism: A Historian’s Afterword	Ann Hughes	142
Notes on Contributors		149