

TABLE OF CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION	11
CHAPTER 1: THE SCHOOLS AND THE CITY	15
The City: Geography, Administration and Citizens	15
Geography and architecture	15
Kings, bishops and administration	17
Citizens, trade and crafts	18
The City of the Scholars	19
The rise of a new institution	19
A turbulent community	21
The scholars at the origin of the university	23
The Topography of the City of Scholars	24
In praise of the city	25
The colleges	26
Bibliography	28
CHAPTER 2: THE PROFESSION OF SCHOLAR	31
The Institution	31
The creation and structure of the University	31
Masters, students and administration	34
The Curriculum	35
The curriculum at the faculty of arts	35
Others sources for the curriculum	39
Teaching at the higher faculties	41
Bibliography	42
CHAPTER 3: THE ORGANISATION AND CONTENT OF LEARNING	45
The Classification of Knowledge	45
The evolution of the classification of sciences	45
The classification of sciences in Arabic writings	46
The classification of sciences in the medieval West	48
The classification of sciences in the thirteenth century	50

The Content of Learning	52
The content of the disciplines at the faculty of arts	53
The evolution of the teaching at the faculty of arts	57
Bibliography	58
CHAPTER 4: THE GLAMOUR OF THE AUTHORITIES	61
The Basic Authors in the Faculty of Arts	61
Textbooks	64
Guides for exam preparation	65
Introductory literature	67
Textbooks for specific disciplines	65
The Basic Authors in the Other Faculties	70
The Authors Revisited	71
Bibliography	71
CHAPTER 5: READING TEXTS: THE BASIS OF LEARNING	75
The Method of the Lectio	75
Commentaries in the form of lectiones	81
Commentaries in the form of questiones and sententia: changing methods	82
The Lectio in the Statutes of the Faculty of Arts at the University of Paris	85
'Ordinary' and 'cursory' reading	83
Cursory reading corresponding to sententia commentaries	81
Repeated reading of the same texts	85
Statutes and Real-Life Practice	89
Bibliography	92
CHAPTER 6: THE METHOD OF QUESTIONING	95
The Questio before the Age of the University	95
The Questio at the Faculty of Arts	92
Questions in commentaries	92
Commentaries made up of questions	99
Questions independent of the text	100
The questions as exercise	101
Questions in compendia for examinations	102
The Various Types of Questions	102
The Influence of the Teaching Methods	103
Bibliography	105

CHAPTER 7: THE ART OF REASONING	107
The Origins of the Disputation	107
The Disputatio in the Paris Schools before the Age of the University	109
The Disputation in the Faculty of Arts	110
The disputation according to the statutes	110
The evolution of the disputation in the faculty of arts	111
Masters composing disputations	115
Conclusion and Summary	118
Bibliography	119
CHAPTER 8: THE OMNIPRESENT DISPUTATION	121
Some General Features of the Disputation	121
The Nature of the Arguments	123
The Character of the Disputation	125
The Use of Disputation in Other Faculties	125
Special Forms of Disputation	127
The fallacy of sophisms	128
The disputatio de quolibet in the different faculties	131
Disputation in the examinations	133
Literary disputations and polemical treatises	134
Conclusion	135
Bibliography	135
CHAPTER 9: HIGHLIGHTS OF UNIVERSITY LIFE	139
Modest Beginnings: Exercises and Examinations	139
Exercises	139
Examinations in the faculty of arts	140
Final Ceremonies	144
The inceptio ceremony	144
Examinations in other faculties	147
Events for Masters	149
Events for All	150
Sermons	150
Academic speeches	150
Bibliography	152