

CONTENTS

Preface	vii
Notes on contributors	x
1. 'onely a boye called Christopher Mowle' Andrew Butcher	1
2. 'The Studious Artizan': Christopher Marlowe, Canterbury and Cambridge Peter Roberts	17
3. 'At Middleborough': Some Reflections on Marlowe's Visit to the Low Countries in 1592 Charles Nicholl	38
4. Visible Bullets: Tamburlaine the Great and Ivan the Terrible Richard Wilson	51
5. Marlowe's Massacre at Paris and the Reputation of Henri III of France David Potter	70
6. Marlowe's Maps of War Nick de Somogyi	96
7. Marlowe and the New World Thomas Cartelli	110
8. The Stage, the Scaffold and the Spectators: the Struggle for Power in Marlowe's Jew of Malta Roger Sales	119
9. Christopher Marlowe and Atheism Nicholas Davidson	129

Contents

10. Necromantic Books: Christopher Marlowe, Doctor Faustus and Agrippa of Nettesheim Gareth Roberts	148
11. 'What passions call you these?': Edward II and James VI Lawrence Normand	172
12. Christopher Marlowe: Ideology and Subversion Michael Hattaway	198
13. 'What means this shew?': Theatricalism, Camp and Subversion in Doctor Faustus and The Jew of Malta Darryll Grantley	224
14. Marlowe and the Internalization of Irony Alexander Shurbanov	239
Bibliography	246
Editions of Marlowe's Works	262
Index	263