

Nationalism and War

JOHN HUTCHINSON

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

Introduction	1
1. European War-Making and the Rise of Nation States	12
Introduction	12
Tilly/Mann and the Military Revolution	13
Warfare, National Identity, and State Formation	21
Modernist Counterclaims	27
Warfare, State Fragility, and Regenerative Nationalism	30
War, Citizenship, and the Establishment of Mass National Solidarities	36
First World War: Democratization and Dictatorship	42
Wars as Critical Junctures	45
War and a World System of Nation States	46
Conclusion	49
2. Warfare, Memorialization, and the Formation of National Communities	50
Introduction	50
Warfare and the Sacred Foundations of Nations	52
Myths and Meanings	52
War Experiences and Collective Self-Differentiation	57
War Mobilization, Collective Rituals, and Symbols	59
Long-Term Social and Political Missions	63
The Nation as Community of Sacrifice	65
Commemoration and National Unity	65
Myths vs Realities of Popular Revolts	68
Nationalism, Interstate War, and Collective Sacrifice	70
Myth Construction, Identity, and Politics	72
Old and New Myths	76
Denationalizing Wars?	80
Pacific and Martial Nations	82
3. Warfare, Imperial Collapse, and the Mass Creation of Nation States	86
Introduction	86
Geopolitical Power vs Nationalist Ideology	89
War, Nationalism, and the Imperial Dissolution	92
Fall of Dynastic Continental Empires	92
The Dissolution of the European Nation-State Overseas Empires	98

The Collapse of the USSR	103
Concluding Remarks	107
Why the Shift from Empire to Nation States?	108
Imperial Legacies and Nation-State Formation	114
Empire and Security in a World of Nation States	120
4. Contemporary Warfare and the End of Heroic Nationalism?	125
Introduction	125
War and the Transition to Postnationalism?	127
The Second Thirty Years War: From Martial Heroism to the Politics of Restitution	127
Decline of the Citizen in Arms	130
Wars of Choice	132
‘New Wars’ outside the European Heartlands	133
Postmodern Deconstructions and Cult of Victims	135
Nationalism Transformed, Not Transcended	138
Collective Trauma and Nationalist Mobilization	139
The Nation and Its Military: Volunteer vs Conscription Debates	142
The National Bases of International Missions	145
The Old Features of New Wars	147
The Resilience of Nationalist Commemorative Narratives	149
Global Religion, Cosmic War, and Battle of Civilizations	155
5. Is Nationalism War-Prone?	160
Introduction	160
Blood Sacrifice and the Nation	161
The Poison of Nationalist Ideology	167
The Nation State as Military Power Container	172
Unsatisfied Nationalisms and Intrastate Wars	180
Conclusions	184
Concluding Thoughts	189
Bibliography	197
Index	217